

You are here: Home / The Edit / Culture Culture / Naturally, We're Intrigued

Naturally, We're Intrigued

19/02/2014

Allan Forsyth's Vivid Light exhibition is showing at the Gallery Elena Shchukina.

Scottish-born artist Allan Forsyth is exhibiting in Mayfair this month. His work bridges a breadth of themes combining a wide range of photographic techniques, but his roots in the Scottish Highlands shine through his natural focus and choice of flora and fauna.

Forsyth captures and expands upon nature's beauty by using a combination of digital and analogue photography, computer generated imagery and photograms to inject emotional subjectivity into his stills. His vivid use of colour and light heightens the drama and intrigue, capturing the majesty of the natural world.

Get the best of both worlds on your iPad and iPhone
COUNTRY & TOWN HOUSE...

NOW AVAILABLE AS AN APP

Available on the App Store

His use of lenticular printing is particularly striking. This technology uses lenses to produce printed images with the illusion of depth and movement when viewed from different angles.

Until 28 March 2014

Gallery Elena Shchukina,

10 Lees place

Mayfair

W1K 6LL

galleryelenashchukina.com

Filed Under: Culture Vulture ▪ Tagged With: Allan Forsyth, Gallery Elena Schukina, lenticular printing, London exhibitions, photograms, photography exhibition

- About Us
- Contact Us
- Media Pack
- Subscriptions
- Supplements